Premium Korean Yugi Bronzeware

Experience the elegance of Korean royal dining culture and the beauty of K-culture featured in Korean dramas.

For centuries, Korean bronzeware (Yugi) has been cherished alongside ceramics as an essential part of Korea's refined table culture.

Its history dates back to the Bronze Age, reflecting the craftsmanship and aesthetic values of Korean heritage.

Among the many production regions, Anseong Yugi is recognized as one of Korea's most distinguished and prestigious traditional bronzeware crafts.

Yugi is a traditional alloy made from approximately 78% copper and 22% tin, forged at temperatures between 1,200°C and 1,300°C.

Renowned for its durability, natural antibacterial properties, and timeless beauty, Yugi continues to embody the excellence of Korean craftsmanship.

Pairs Beautifully with Both Korean and Western Cuisine

Yugi bronzeware complements a wide variety of dishes, from traditional Korean cuisine to modern Western dining. Its warm metallic luster enhances food presentation, adding elegance and sophistication to every table setting.

Natural Safety Indicator

One of the unique characteristics of Yugi bronzeware is its ability to react to certain substances through changes in surface color. Traditionally, this property has been valued as a natural indicator of contamination, making Yugi a trusted material for tableware for generations.

Perfectly Crafted for Your Lifestyle Preserving the Legacy of Korean Yugi

NOBBAN carries forward the rich heritage of Korean Yugi, a traditional bronzeware crafted from an alloy of approximately 78% copper and 22% tin. Forged at temperatures between 1,200°C and 1,300°C, Yugi is renowned for its durability, elegant luster, and timeless beauty.

The history of Yugi in Korea dates back to the Bronze Age and has continued through the Three Kingdoms Period and the Joseon Dynasty. For centuries, it has been an integral part of Korean dining culture, valued for both its functionality and refined aesthetic.

Among Korea's traditional Yugi-producing regions, Anseong is particularly renowned for its exceptional craftsmanship. The region's reputation for quality is reflected in the well-known Korean expression "Anseong Matchum," which refers to something that is perfectly made and ideally suited for its purpose.

One of the distinctive characteristics of Yugi is its sensitivity to environmental conditions, which may cause natural changes in surface color over time. This unique feature has long contributed to its reputation as a trusted material for tableware.

Today, Yugi continues to be appreciated for its traditional craftsmanship, lasting durability, and the warmth it brings to both contemporary and traditional table settings.

NOBBAN is committed to preserving this heritage while introducing the beauty of Korean Yugi to modern lifestyles around the world.
